

storytime™ SPRING SUMMER SPOTTERS GUIDE

The wild weed is one of the many beautiful blooms out there! Go outside and spot these flowers in the parks and woodlands around you. Tick each of them when you spot them!

Flower	Spot it!	About	Date spotted
Daffodils		Daffodils look like they're blowing a trumpet to celebrate the end of winter! You plant the bulbs in autumn and they flower in spring, just in time for Easter. The German word for daffodil is 'Osterglocke' which means Easter bell!
Tulips		Tulips grow from bulbs and come in lots of pretty colours. Hundreds of years ago, people loved tulips so much, their bulbs sold for lots and lots of money. People still love tulips today and tulip festivals are held all over the world.
Primroses		Pretty primroses are one of the earliest flowers of spring. Its name means 'first rose'. If you spot a creamy coloured primrose, then you're very lucky, as this is a proper wild primrose and is very special indeed!
Daisies		Have you noticed that daisies close their petals and go to sleep when the sun goes down? Daisies flower all summer too, but it's always a sign that spring is coming when they first appear. Why not pick some and make a pretty daisy chain?
Bluebells		These beautiful flowers love to grow in the woods and when they bloom, they cover the woodland floor with an amazing blue carpet! Bluebells are sometimes called fairy flowers, as some people believe that fairies wear them as hats.
